Who Was Anne Frank? A Brief Biography

Anne Frank was born on 12 June 1929 in the Dutch city of Frankfurt am Main, Germany. Her birth name was Anna Frank, but she adopted the nickname Anne while living in the Netherlands. She was the second child of Otto Frank, a successful businessman, and Edith Frank, a devoted mother and homemaker. The family moved to Amsterdam in 1933 after the Nazi party rose to power, seeking safety from anti Jewish laws in Germany.

In the Netherlands, the Frank family enjoyed a relatively comfortable life. Otto ran a textile business, and Anne and her older sister, Margot, attended local schools. However, the increasing persecution of Jews in the early 1940s forced the family into a life of secrecy. In July 1942, the Dutch government ordered all Jews to register at the police, a step that led to the Frank family's eventual hiding.
